

Dr Narendra Dabholkar

A man who was committed to the betterment of society he was sincere and cared deeply

A savior who sacrificed everything unfortunately was shot one morning

A social activist full of empathy went out of his way to end brutality

His fight was against superstition and ignorance blinded by fear; between wrong and right, some could not see the difference

The villains were self-proclaimed God men who took unfair advantage of anybody's faith

He was not afraid of death he enlightened others and did his best

The murderers who got him killed thought they won but we won't let it happen

We will not be fooled by con-men and thugs we won't follow stupid traditions and sacrifice animals

This superhero's work will continue forever
A law to ban superstitions is put in order

Inspiration : SUPERHEROES OF INDIA

I wrote this poem on May 1 2019 [Maharashtra Day] to celebrate one of my favorite superheroes of India. Video Format
